Is engineering higher education fit for the future? The Annual Congress 2018 will explore how we need to adapt teaching, research and our relationship with industry to meet the challenges of a fast-changing world.

The Annual Congress is the big event in the calendar of the Engineering Professors' Council. It is an opportunity to network, gain and share insights and stay in touch with developments in policy and practice in teaching, research and innovation.

This year, we are being generously hosted by Harper Adams University in bucolic surroundings in Shropshire, where we have a full schedule of high-profile, expert speakers and an exciting programme of activities.
